I grew up in Southern California and have a love for hiking in the mountains. One day, my father took me sailing in the harbor of Newport Beach. I was 10. That was a special day for me, just me and my dad, and I fell in love with sailing. Throughout my life, I have not gone boating often. Sailing is my favorite boating activity, as you feel like you are flying on the water.

Now I live in Houston with my husband, Kenneth, and our furry friend, Addison. My children, a daughter and son, live in Orange County, California with their families. I visit them every summer, and when I get a chance, I go boating.

I am a retired schoolteacher now and have started cross-stitching. A fellow teacher, who gifted me with a stitched portrait of her daughter and me, introduced me to Stitch People. I have learned a lot and received support with my projects. I love this community. I'm hooked.
